Kellstrom Materials Rebrands to Kellstrom Aerospace

April 24th, 2017 – Miami, Florida – Kellstrom Materials - a supply chain partner to the world's largest air transport providers and MROs - has announced that it is changing its corporate trade name and logo mark to Kellstrom Aerospace.

Over the last two years, Kellstrom Materials has expanded its capabilities and product offerings to further support its customer base as a full-service provider to the commercial aftermarket. During this period of rapid growth, Kellstrom Materials has added over 30 supplier relationships to its new parts distribution product line, created OEM Service platforms, whole asset trading and leasing offering, and added several technical service capabilities for aircraft fleet managers.

Kellstrom Materials will begin operating under the new trade name, Kellstrom Aerospace, effective as of April 24th, 2017. Kellstrom Aerospace will officially be unveiled at the upcoming MRO Americas show in Orlando, FL, April 25 – 27, 2017.

"I am excited to announce the new logo and branding to our customer base and the industry. This change now represents to airlines, leasing companies and MROs around the world that Kellstrom Aerospace represents full service aftermarket solutions, from supporting new aircraft inductions to end-of-life solutions," said Jeff Lund, CEO, Kellstrom Aerospace.

The new logo mark was designed to reflect the Company's position in the marketplace and its overall aftermarket solutions, and will be implemented across the company's product and services throughout the calendar year 2017.

While the trade name and logo will be changing to better represent the future of the company, Kellstrom Aerospace's mission remains the same: to continuously provide commercial operators and MROs an unrivaled suite of cost-effective supply chain management solutions.
